DIARY NOTES

15 September 1959

DD/S

1. John Tietjen advised me that the Department of State had been using our psychiatric service on a very limited basis and wished to explore the possibility of expanding such use. I told him that I had no objection to this exploration but wanted to make sure that we did not get ourselves in a situation where it would be necessary to expand our service in order to take care of the Department of State and that he should make no commitments without my approval.

2. [redacted] reported that negotiations with the [redacted] were in connection with their taking over the [redacted] progressing satisfactorily. He said that he had been queried by [redacted] as to whether it wouldn't be possible to have them take over the guard function also. I do not believe that we should ask them to do this; however, I do want to discuss this with Security inasmuch as it might be possible to have the General Services Administration take this over.

3. [redacted] was in to talk with me about his future assignment when he returns from the [redacted] in January. I told him that we would be glad to have him in the Management Staff and that I would set up a position to accommodate him if he chose to come with us; however, I could not hold out any hopes for early advancement. He definitely does not want to return to the Office of Central Reference. He is going to talk to Bob Amory about the possibility of being a special assistant on his staff and also to Dick Bissell about the possibility of a deep-cover assignment. All in all, I think that the chances are at least fifty-fifty that he will decide to take a job with the Management Staff.
